

The art of PERFECT PLANNING

For a dramatic Big Day without the drama, you need Quintessentially Weddings...

Every couple has a vision for how they want their Big Day to be, but most don't have the time or knowledge required to see their dreams through. Rather than compromise, work with a wedding planning service to take care of all the aspects you can't. One of the industry's most respected experts are Quintessentially Weddings. A luxury service, they have arranged weddings and events for a host of celebrities and elite brides and grooms. We asked the team to explain more about the benefits of professional wedding planning.

What can a couple expect from their planner?

Personal, undivided care and a near obsession with weddings! At Quintessentially we take pride in making the seemingly impossible happen. We are culturally sensitive and know the pitfalls and perks of hosting weddings in different countries as well as knowing how to manage several events, as is common for Asian weddings. Couples are assigned an expert who will be there almost 24/7 and right up until the last guest departs. They will also remain in contact after the wedding until any loose ends have been tied up.

What is the job of a wedding planner?

In a nutshell they look after every aspect of the day – at Quintessentially Weddings we will help you find a venue and develop a concept for the celebrations from creating a décor theme, looking after all the administration and budgetary elements, guest management, travel arrangements, entertainment curation and even issuing stationery. We are often cited as a modern day 'fairy godmother', we work hard to make planning a wedding a stress free breeze for a couple and their family.

When should a couple book their planner?

Ideally, as soon as they know they wish to use one - although we have produced weddings in a matter of weeks we have also planned a wedding over two and a half years. Most couples secure their planners once they have narrowed down where they would like to marry and chosen a date.

Why should I book a planner?

There is a common misconception that wedding planners are a real luxury - yet in the States, nearly 90% of all weddings have one. Planners are professionals, and used to the rigours of organising a wedding which makes them a great investment especially for those with busy lives who really want that extraordinary wedding they've dreamt of.
