Quintessentially Wedding Atelier party

If you happened to stroll past 29 Portland Place last week, you might have been mistaken for thinking a wedding was in mid-swing. There was a lot of confetti, even more beautiful dresses and EVERYTHING was white. But, this was Quintessentially's Wedding Atelier party, and a heap of brides-to-be pitched up to try on frocks by Browns Brides, Oscar de la Renta and Vera Wang. Harrods provided the canapés - seared tuna, brownie lollipops and blueberry macaroons. In fact, they were so good, Roland Mouret and Edward Taylor even breezed by for a bite. With champagne flowing and good music playing, it was like the best wedding you've been too - minus the drunken uncles and drive home.
